

THE CHRONICLE OF PHILANTHROPY

Connecting the nonprofit world with news, jobs, and ideas

Monday, February 7, 2011

Subscribe Today!

- Home
- Today's News
- Fund Raising
- Giving
- Managing
- Causes
- Facts & Figures
- Jobs
- Community
- Marketplace

America's Top Donors | Philanthropy 50 | Philanthropy 400 | Executive Compensation | Corporate Giving | More Surveys

Philanthropy 50

Home > Facts & Figures > Philanthropy 50

Search

E-mail Print Comment Share

February 6, 2011

No. 44: Jan T. and Marica F. Vilcek

Jan T. and Marica F. Vilcek

Enlarge Image

Art, in New York.

Amount donated in 2010: $23.1-million

Biggest beneficiary: New York University Langone Medical Center

Donors' background: Dr. Vilcek is a professor of microbiology at New York University School of Medicine and co-developed Remicade, an anti-inflammatory drug. Ms. Vilcek is a former associate curator and head of the accessions and catalog department at the Metropolitan Museum of Dr. Vilcek, 77, and his wife, Marica, 74, pledged $21-million to New York University Langone Medical Center. Of the total, $10-million will go toward a new residence hall for students, $10-million will endow full-tuition scholarships, and $1-million will be added to the Jan T. Vilcek Endowed Fellowship Fund, which the couple established five years ago. Dr. Vilcek said he hopes the donation will “enable talented young medical students and researchers to have the same opportunities that I did at NYU Langone.” He added that he and his wife hope to improve the competitiveness of the medical school and attract the best-qualified students.

While they have an eye toward present and future students, the couple's reasons for giving to the medical center are rooted in their past. They came to the United States 46 years ago as refugees from what was then communist Czechoslovakia with no money and few contacts.

“We earned our small fortune not by speculating in the financial markets but by doing scientific research in a university setting,” said Dr. Vilcek.

He said the medical center gave him the opportunity to be a part of its family, and it in turn became his intellectual home. He and his wife now want to make it possible for others to succeed.

The Vilceks have paid $8.3-million toward the pledge and plan to pay the remainder over the next three years. The $21-million commitment is not the Vilceks' first gift to the institution or even their largest. In 2005 the couple pledged $105-million to the medical school for education and research programs in the department of microbiology.

Dr. and Ms. Vilcek last year gave $1-million to their Vilcek Foundation, in New York, which they established in 2000. The foundation awards grants and prizes with a focus on calling attention to the contributions of immigrants to science and the arts in the United States. The couple also gave $700,000 to the Metropolitan Museum of Art and a total of more than $390,000 to other nonprofits, including the Bellevue Literary Press, in New York, several scientific research funds at New York University, and other organizations.

—Maria Di Mento

THE CHRONICLE OF PHILANTHROPY

Social Media from the Inside Out

Thursday, February 24
2:00-3:00 p.m.
Eastern Time

REGISTER NOW

Sponsored by:

SIMILAR ARTICLES

- Setting an Example, Reluctantly - January 29, 2009
- \$28-Million Committed to Marquette U.; Other Gifts - May 26, 2005
- \$29-Million Bequest Made to Pennsylvania Hospital; Other Big Donations to Charities - March 8, 2001
- \$40-Million Donated to Oregon University for Medical School; Other Recent Gifts - February 22, 2007
- Technology Magnate Creates Foundation With \$75-Million; Other Gifts - May 17, 2007

VISIT THE CHRONICLE STORE

Buy print and digital editions of The Chronicle of Philanthropy and purchase access to exclusive data about the nonprofit world in The Chronicle Store.

MOST POPULAR

Most Viewed Most E-Mailed Most Commented

- America's Biggest Donors in 2010
- America's Biggest Donors Hit a New Low
- Where They Live, How They Give
- The Philanthropy 50: Americans Who Gave the Most in 2010
- Using Social Media for Annual Appeals

THE CHRONICLE BLOGROLL

Previous Appearances on the list

Year	Rank	Total donated or pledged
2005	11	$109.0-million

View more profiles of donors who gave the most in 2010.

E-mail Print Comment Share

Add Your Comment

You must be logged in to add a comment. Please login now or create a free account.

Giving

An Investing 'Lothario' Becomes a Passionate Philanthropist

Managing

Going Out of Business, Deliberately

The Tool Kit

Making Volunteering a Family Affair

Quick links to all of The Chronicle's blogs:

Prospecting

Fund raising tips, tricks, and advice

Social Philanthropy

Exploring the use of social media for social good

Give and Take

News and notes from the nonprofit blogosphere

Against the Grain

A candid conversation about nonprofit boards

World View

A blog about international philanthropy

Money and Mission

Discussing the world of nonprofit finance

Government & Politics Watch

Tracking the intersection of politics and philanthropy

The Watchdog

Exploring how government regulates nonprofits

Layoffs and Mergers

A digest of cutbacks and changes at nonprofit groups

Conference Notebook

Updates from notable events in the world of philanthropy

CONTINUE THE CONVERSATION

Join us on these social-media networks to stay informed about the nonprofit world.

Twitter

Facebook

LinkedIn

YouTube

HOME | TODAY'S NEWS | FUND RAISING | GIVING | MANAGING | CAUSES | FACTS & FIGURES | JOBS | COMMUNITY | MARKETPLACE

Subscribe | Newsletters | Advertise | Help | About The Chronicle | Contact Us | Site Map | Permissions | Privacy Policy

Copyright 2011. All rights reserved.

The Chronicle of Philanthropy 1255 Twenty-Third St, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20037